Twelve Students Seek Major Offices

During the next few weeks election talk will be heard all over campus as twelve candidates seek major offices.

The present major officers presented their nominations to the nominating convention who in turn made a report to the electoral board. The electoral board screened candidates and upon approval these nominees were asked to run for the offices.

Each candidate has selected a campaign manager and tonight they will select campaign committees.

On February 29, the candidates will address the student body in Wilson auditorium. Elections will take place the next day, and results will be announced to the candidates and the student body on the same night.

Candidates for SGA President are l. to r. Alma Brown, and Carolyn Morrison.

S.G.A.

Don't Forget To Vote

Members Of Orchesis Attend Dance Festival

Nine members of Orchesis Club left today (Friday) for Richmond to attend the annual College Dance Festival.

Over the weekend the group will attend the dance concert of Valerie Bettis and her company at the Virginia Museum Theater.

The concert will include "The Desperate Heart" danced to the poem by John Malcolm Brinnin, to be read by Duncan Noble and danced by Miss Bettis. The program also includes "Domino Furioso," a commedia in four acts.

On Saturday the Madison girls will attend a master class conducted by Miss Bettis at Westhampton College. Later that evening they will go to the Virginia Museum Theater for a lecture-demonstration by Miss Bettis. Following this Miss Bettis will judge the dance presentations given by the students attending the festival.

At this time Madison will present "Mummers."

Those from Madison attending the festival are Pamela Guy, Vicki Lynn, Sally Carrabello, Betty Coghill, Carol Brockway, Nahid Bejian, Sonja Tolbert, Martha Jones, and Carol Dunaway accompanied by Miss Monica Gutchow and Mrs. Geil.

"Library Limits"

How often do you spend your study time in the library? On a typical week night there can be found a sizeable group of students studying. Yet in proportion to the number of students here at Madison, this group is much too small. There must be some reason for this lack of interest in the library.

The most prevalent reason to be thought of is the lack of quietness in the library. It can be very disheartening to settle down in a library chair and begin reading your assignment only to be interrupted by the buzz of two fellow students chattering away at the table behind you. Then in addition to this, there is always the individual who cannot possibly walk across the library floor without making every step sound like that of an elephant.

The point to be stressed here is that if we want to get the best out of the library we must do our best individually to keep the chatter down and the noise to a minimum. Maybe if this were done the library would be used more often.

L.C.

The Obligation Of Duty

With tasks in each culture there are duties which each man must perform. Some of these are duty to God, to man, and to country.

Our connotation of the term duty implies responsibility. Yet how often we shirk the responsibilities and "push them off" on some other individual.

In considering our duties, we often forget an important aspect of them—the duty to the self. As individuals we set for ourselves certain goals and ideals; yet nothing would ever be accomplished if we merely set these goals and did nothing to attain them. Thus each individual has an obligation, a responsibility to the self to fulfill the goal which he has set.

It is groups of such individuals that form our culture. We are fortunate because common ideas and ideals can be sought. If this seeking were by a minority only, then surely, we would fail. Duty needs constant support. If duty topples so does humanity.

Duty is not to be considered lightly. It is difficult sometimes to distinguish what our particular duty might be; but regardless of this doubt, one should be faithful to his own personal set of standards. Duty calls, let every man answer.

Athletic Association

To the student body:

The Women's Athletic Association announces the following change in the participants of the 1960 May Court:

- A. the court shall consist of twenty-nine seniors in the capacity of:
  1. one May Queen
  2. one Maid of Honor
  3. nine Maids
  4. eighteen attendants
- B. And there shall be nine representatives from the classes divided equally among the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors in the capacity of:
  1. One princess and her two attendants from each class.

This plan was passed by the Women's Athletic Association Council after studying the vote taken on campus to include underclassmen in May Day Court and suggested plans. Seven hundred and seven students voted for including underclassmen and two hundred and fifty-five voted against including underclassmen.

The Council would like to express the following reasons for the change in the May Court:

1. to make May Day more of a campus wide activity
2. To stimulate interest in May Day
3. and to be more representative of Madison College.

The student body will please notice that this plan will still place the emphasis on the senior members of the May Court and will also include representatives from underclasses.

Your Athletic Association Council found while discussing this change that many members of the student body and a member of administration were under a misconception as to the procedure of selection of the May Court.

The Senior members of the May Court shall be selected in the following way:

1. the nominating committee from each class shall present a list of thirty-five senior girls
2. The W.A.A. shall submit a list of thirty-five girls
3. And a list of thirty-five senior girls shall be taken from the student body through a list posted in Harrison Hall.
4. The top twenty-nine girls shall walk during a student body assembly
5. The student body shall select:
  - a. one May Queen
  - b. one Maid of Honor
  - c. nine Maids
  - d. the remaining eighteen girls shall be attendants.

The representatives from each of the remaining three classes shall be selected by:

1. Nominating committee of the class presenting a slate of six girls from their respective classes
2. During a class meeting nominations shall be received from the floor.
3. And the members of the class shall select their princesses.

Your Women's Athletic Association Council does not select your May Court.

We would like to thank you for your cooperation in making this change and would like to express a sincere desire for this change to prove effective.

Women's Athletic Association
Billie Jean Cook, Vice-President

Madison Men Speak

Well, here are a few lines to read while we are returning from slipping and sliding around on the snow. The snow is always fun until we have an armful of books and start sliding down a flight of steps or a long hill.

"What do you think of our little college town?", asked the student. "It certainly is unique," answered the visitor. "What do you mean by 'unique'?" Replied the visitor: "It's from the Latin 'unus' meaning one, and 'equis' meaning horse."

The Madison Dukes will be playing their last game of the season Tuesday night in Reed Gym. They will be playing host to Ferrum Jr. College.

So far, the Dukes haven't been able to mark up a victory. Let's try to help the Madison men win this one with our attendance at the game Tuesday night at 7:30.

Remember Religious Emphasis Week starting Monday, February 22, through Friday 26. The Rev. Harold A. Malmberg will be the week's speaker.

MEETINGS

Wednesday, February 24

Men's Student Government Organization in Burrus 109 at 12 Noon.

She's From Madison

By Sandie Hepp

She's a genius in a wrinkled trench coat, the bell of the ball in dirty saddle shoes, and the future of America with its head in pin curls.

Her favorite skirt is worn five days a week and she knows approximately ten thousand different ways of screwing her hair up on top of her head after a "late night before."

She wants to be a success in anything she does but right now does everything backwards. Lost pencils, broken light bulbs, and empty mail boxes upset her tremendously and she gets absolutely frantic over runs in her hose, waiting ten minutes for her lunch, and men on ladders.

The only things she can take in stride are late homework, loss of a book from the library, missing a big test, and failing her worst subject.

She's an up-and-coming Einstein who is attracted to Huckleberry Hound and is an avid follower of Peanuts. She'd like to make her great discovery early in life but unfortunately listening to Johnny Mathis and filing her nails takes too much time.

She loves boys from Tech, V.M.I., and U. Va. Each night she prays for great snows to entrap her at a haven of love surrounded in the privacy of about ten hundred eligible young men over half of which belong to suitable fraternities and are heroes on the basketball team.

She hates with a passion chicken of any kind and hominy grits. Realizing she's a Southern belle she feels a little guilty about the latter, but after chewing on hominy three times daily for what seems like years she meditates with glee on what might happen if the D-hall burned down.

She is a social magnate and must see that everything runs right in the public gathering places. Often she spends house playing cards at Doc's just in case anything of important occurs or something tragic happens for her to get mixed up in.

In the future, she'll be a huge success at bridge parties and will be able to play Scrabble in foreign languages. And what's more she'll probably blossom into a strong young woman who somewhere along the way has managed to assemble herself and be an asset to the world which harbors her.

MC Students Enjoy Surprise Snowfall

by Jean Foule

Madison's traditional back-campus sun-bathing area was converted into a miniature Squaw Valley Sunday after a surprise snowfall blanketed the area.

The campus during the snow season gives the appearance of having been taken from a Dickens' novel. However, the "characters" back campus on Sunday were more of an Al Capp variety.

Fashion magazines of a more northerly region may advertise the proper snow attire but Madison students devise their own. Working from the inside out, the "custom" runs as follows: one pair of pajamas (flannel preferred), one pair of Leg-O-Togs (matters not that they are out of style—they're warm), one pair of slacks, two pairs of socks, one pair of heavy shoes, one pair of boots, one blouse, one sweater, one sweat-shirt, one blazer, and one trench coat (this is to meet a college regulation which states that a long coat must be worn with sports attire). This costume is completed, topped off, so to speak, with one six-foot wool scarf or one pair of earmuffs or both. Gloves or mittens of any color, matched or mismatched, are the proper thing, for the hands.

The student thus attired is the mirror of Madison snow fashions and ready for sledding, snowballing or any related snow activity, providing of course that she is able to waddle to the elevator and out of the door.

Campus Closeups

Snow seems to produce the perfect setting for many scenes. Its lulling sleep producing effect seems to be rather noticeable. A sophomore girl was studying diligently in the library with her book held firmly before her. Suddenly the quietness of the library was shattered by a loud crash. Our studious one had fallen asleep, and the book finally came crashing to the table.

One of the most unusual sights around campus was the one in front of Alumnae Hall where our Dean of Women was getting her daily exercise by shoveling snow off the sidewalk. She commented to some passing students: "If nobody else will do it I surely can."

The snow causes many accidents. Some of them are amusing although they are serious. One young lady was taken to the infirmary with a head injury after she fell during a snow-ball battle on the third floor of one of the dormitories.

Many comments have been heard since the opening of the new duck-pin bowling alley. The following conversation was overheard in the dining hall as a long-time bowler talked to a girl who obviously knows nothing about that form of recreation.

"You know, I really like the new bowling alley, but I'd much rather bowl with the larger balls."

"Oh, is there more than one kind?"

"Uhh, yes, the large balls have finger holes in them. (teasingly) The holes are driven all the way through."

"Really?"

"Yes, you put your thumb and first three fingers in the bottom, lift the ball up in front of you and sight through another set of holes."

Standards

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

The tipping of soup or dessert dishes is acceptable if the plate is tipped away from the spoon, not toward the eater.

When dining in a restaurant, the woman is seated at the man's right on most occasions, and when two couples are eating together, the women sit opposite each other.

Gravy is never poured or ladled onto rice, noodles, potatoes or any food other than meat on a plate. If you want to eat your potatoes with gravy, you dip a forkful into the gravy that has escaped from the meat.

In sitting down at the table, you enter and leave the chair from the left side.

Napkins are opened lengthwise so that it is folded double across the knees. Although through use it may become unfolded, the napkin should not be shaken out at the start of a meal.

This etiquette column, as the name implies, is sponsored by Standards, and it is open to questions on etiquette from the student body. Each week answers to these questions, that have been submitted to box 376, will be given using both Amy Vanderbilt and Emily Post as references. If students have other questions concerning Standards regulations here on campus, these, too, will be discussed in the column.

It is felt that the column will be most helpful to the students while here at Madison and in later alumnae days. As Amy Vanderbilt says, "For we must all learn the socially acceptable ways of living with others in no matter what society we move. Even in primitive societies there are such rules, some as complex and inexplicable as many of our own. Their original... purpose is lost, but their acceptance is unquestionable. It is axiomatic that as we mature and grow in years and experiences we must be able to meet more demanding social situations with confidence and ease."

Madison Student Is College Board Member

Madison College will be represented this year on Mademoiselle's national College Board by Pattie Lou Jernigan '61. She is among the 819 students at 314 colleges who will report to Mademoiselle this year on college life and the college scene.

As a College Board member, each girl will complete an assignment that will help her explore her interests and abilities in writing, editing, fashion, advertising or art, in competition for the twenty guest editorships to be awarded by the magazine at the end of May.

The Guest Editors will be brought to New York for four weeks next June to help write, edit and illustrate Mademoiselle's 1960 August College issue. Their transportation will be paid to and from New York, and they will receive a regular salary for their work.

In addition to their work on the magazine, Guest Editors will interview outstanding men and women in their chosen fields to help clarify their career aims, will visit fashion showrooms, publishing houses and advertising agencies and will take part in the parties Mademoiselle is planning for them.

CLUB CORNER

On February 11, A.C.E. held its regular meeting. As their guests were members of the Arlington school system who discussed education.

All seniors were invited to hear the guest speakers talk on the Arlington school system. After the meeting coffee was served in Alumni so the Seniors could become better acquainted with the guests.

The Wesley Foundation is happy to add two new members to its Council representing the Freshmen and the men. They are Mary Samples and Ralph Crabill respectively. On Saturday from one to ten P.M., the Council will have its second semester retreat at the apartment on Mason Street Sunday morning at 9:40. Sally Best, President, will hold an installation service for the new members that have been added to the Council this year.

Chairmen Elected For Lutheran Group

Sarah Lindsey and Mary Ann Fravel were elected to be co-chairmen of the newly formed Lutheran Student Action committee at the regular meeting on Tuesday night. Plans were made for the joint meeting with VMI on March 16th, and Lenten offering boxes were distributed.

German-Cotillion Will Present Popular Lester Lanin Travelers

DANCE — PARTY — FUN! There is one living synonym for all three of these words — The LESTER LANIN TRAVELERS! For more than two decades, The TRAVELERS symbolized the ultimate in dance Orchestras, and almost anyone who has ever gone dancing in any part of the United States, has danced at some time to the music of one of Mr. Lanin's Orchestras as they definitely get around—into all the best places.

The Lester Lanin Travelers will be on campus for the German-Cotillion dance week-end on March 5. They will present a concert on Saturday afternoon and will play for the formal dance that night. The concert tickets are $1.50 and $.75 stag. The Saturday formal is $6.00 per couple.

The Virginia Cavaliers will be on hand for the Friday night informal which will be held in Reed gym. The price for this is $2.50 per couple.

A block ticket of $9.00 can be purchased which will include all the activities of this weekend.

The German-Cotillion weekend is one of the most outstanding activities of Madison College. Everyone can be assured of good music and dancing provided by the Virginia Cavaliers and the Lester Lanin Travelers.

Notice

All students who expect to be taking Student Teaching during the 1960-61 session or in the 1961 summer session, are requested to meet with Dr. Poindexter in the auditorium of the Anthony-Seeger Campus School on Tuesday afternoon, February 23, 1960, at 3:30 p.m. At this time, preliminary explanations of the total student teaching program will be given. Also, application forms for student teaching, along with other information, will be presented. It is important that all persons concerned be present for this meeting.

Extramural News — Madison's Girls' Basketball Team will play hostess to Elizabeth Town College this Saturday in Reed Gym. The group from Elizabeth Town, Pennsylvania, will travel to this area Friday night to play the Bridgewater Team and then be on hand to play here at Madison at 1:00, February 20.

Following the basketball game there will be a fencing meet in Reed at 2:30. Madison's Fencing Club will fence its alumnae who are coming from the Virginia-Washington area for this special event.

Intramural News — The first day of bowling intramurals proved to be a big success as twenty-five beginners and fifteen advanced bowlers went to the new alleys to test their skill. Helen Stevenson was the high scorer in the group with a game of 104.

Mary Ellen Kilday is the newly appointed sports leader for swimming. Intramurals for this activity starts February 22 and ends March 11. Meeting times are Monday and Friday from 4:30-5:30. Everyone is encouraged to come out whether you can swim or not. Mary Ellen has many interesting plans for the season so give her your support.

Intramural basketball is well on its way as approximately 75 girls are participating. The games got under way Tuesday with Ashby #1 defeating Cleveland Dorm, Logan defeating Gifford, and Johnston forfeiting to Ashby #2. Keen competition in both playing and cheering sent spirits soaring in a practice game between Ashby #2 and Sheldon. How about some of these "neat" cheerleaders being on hand to spur the Extramural Team to victory this Saturday!

There seem to be some new activities going on back campus which include skiing and sledding. No instruction is being offered but there's loads of fun to be had — especially if you can get in good with "Mr. Weatherman." Oh yes! These activities are not limited to students — it seems that a certain music professor was back campus Sunday trying his hand (?) at skiing. Olympics here we come!!

Until the next time remember —

Religious Emphasis Begins On Monday

Madison's annual Religious Emphasis Week will begin on February 22. The Reverend Harold A. Malmberg, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Newton, Massachusetts, will be the speaker for the occasion.

A varied schedule of activities has been scheduled throughout the week, concluding with chapel at twelve noon on February 26. Selected topics of discussion will be presented at the chapel programs during the week. Meetings at 6:30 P.M. in Wilson Auditorium, and buzz sessions in all dormitories at 9:00 P.M. will be regular events.

In addition to previously scheduled activities, personal interviews may be scheduled with the Rev. Mr. Malmberg by contacting June Kent, Converse 207.

Attendance Committee Announces Cut Ruling

A student who makes the Dean's list during a semester in which he or she overcuts must abide during the next semester by the penalty which the Attendance Committee has given. For example, if a student overcuts during the fall semester when not on the Dean's List and makes the Dean's List during that semester, he or she will not have unlimited cuts during the spring semester. The number of cuts will be determined by the penalty which the Attendance Committee gives.

Music Faculty To Give Recital

Four members of the Madison Music department will perform in a recital February 23, at 8:00 p.m. in Wilson Auditorium.

Bennett Reimer, Gertrud Burau, J. Edgar Anderson, and Henry Black will present a varied program.

The program will contain "Partita 2, for Oboe and Piano"; "Frauenliebe und Leben, for Voice and Piano" by Robert Schumann, "Twelve Variations for Oboe and Piano on a Theme of Schubert", and "Concerto in C Minor."
